CLOSING OF LOCK MAY HAMPER COAL BUSINESS

Coal Men Anticipate Cutting Down to Some Extent Their Trade

SHIPPING NOW BY RAIL

Only One Lock Will be in Operation at No. 4 From Now Until Completion

Mine owners of mines above the fourth pool anticipate the cutting down to some extent of their coal business during the spring and summer months by reason of the partial closing down of Lock No. 4, which is to be rebuilt.

The inner lock at Lock No. 4 was closed down some time ago and repairs are now being made there. This leaves just one lock in operation, the outer or smaller lock. When the inner lock is repaired it will be opened and the outer closed for good until it is reopened a new lock.

Nearly all the mines up the river are making large shipments by rail. Arnold No. 2 mine is sending nearly all its product out over the Western Maryland, while the mines along the river front are using the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie to quite an extent.

No curtailment in the working force of the different mines is anticipated at the present time.

COUNTERFEIT DIES ARE CONFISCATED

Implements for Manufacture of $10 and $20

Gold Pieces Secured and Monessen Man is Placed Under Arrest

For having in his possession two dies for the manufacture of counterfeit $10 and $20 gold pieces, Ellisworth Glover, a well known Monessen man was arrested Friday and today was taken to Pittsburgh to be lodged in jail by a United States Secret Service officer.

No evidence of the manufacture or circulation of any counterfeit coins has been discovered. One of the dies showed the effects of heating but it might easily have been from testing. The dies are declared to be works of art, so perfectly are they. They were hand cut.

Mr. Glover is employed at the plant of the Carnegie Hoop mill. When he came to work Friday he gave the watchman a shoe box, asking him to keep it for him, and explaining it was a pair of shoes. Made suspicious, in the manufacture of counterfeit by the weight of the box the watchman took the liberty of removing the dies 1910 and the $20 die, 1889.

THREE PLAYERS SIGN CONTRACTS

First Baseman Swartling and Pitchers Beebe and Taylor Meet Phillips

On Monday morning the first players will report for the training season of the Indianapolis club of the Federal league. Manager Bill Phillips secured the contracts of Swartling, first baseman; Beebe, pitcher, and Taylor, pitcher, and announced them as signed today.

Manager Phillips is the busiest man in town. With taking care of ball players of the younger generation who desire tryouts—and generally speaking they will get what they want—and with the signing of old timers and preparing for active work next week he has his hands full.

Swartling the first baseman whom he has signed came here from Pittsburgh to see Manager Phillips. Swartling is one of the fastest first basemen that has ever donned a suit in minor league circles. He formerly played with Zanesville, and had he cared could have been in the big league by this time and not half tried. Instead he worked in Pittsburgh last year.

Beebe made a wonderful record in Michigan last year where he pitched for Marquette. He won 18 games and lost three. He is a right hander.

Taylor is a crack. He was secured by Cincinnati last year and then loaned to Indianapolis in the American Association, where he finished.

Married at Washington.

Miss Mabel Rush, of Laboratory, and George E. Elliott of Washington were married a week ago at Washington, but have gone to housekeeping at Laboratory. The bride is well known in Charleroi, this being her former home. For a time she was employed as a compositor in the Mail office. Mr. Elliott has charge of the job press room of the Washington Record.

AMONG THE THEATRES

THE COYLE-CHARLEROI.

With magnificent settings and superb details, the great Eclair feature motion picture drama, "The Superior Law," was the leading attraction in the most excellent of repertoire of the Coyle Theatre this week. The picture was in three parts and was another powerful story of the great Northwest series of the Eclair feature films. It pictured a famous lawyer acquitting a man he really knew to be guilty, but lack of direct evidence won him the case. The lawyer, who is addicted to drink, neglects his charming wife, who is followed by the attentions of a captain in the army. After the lawyer becomes attracted by the daughter of the proprietor of a road house he is supposed to be killed and thrown in the river in a drunken brawl, and the wife marries the captain. The lawyer is rescued by the woodman he acquits, who takes him to his cabin, and gets a specialist to perform an operation which restores the lawyer to reason. There he learns of his wife's marriage and decides to remain in the woods. He finally marries the daughter of the saloon keeper but later tells of his deceit. An accident causes the death of his real wife and then he is free to marry the girl. In addition to this film was a feature two reel drama, showing the career of Loretta Borgia, the woman who figured in history as one of the noted poisoners of the age. Manager Coyle is making preparations for some extraordinary educational features next week, which will be announced in due season. A good bill is on for Saturday.

THE PALACE-CHARLEROI.

Another good vaudeville bill opened at the Palace Theatre Thursday night for the balance of the week, with a matinee Saturday. Heading the bill is the Manhattan Trio, a clever bunch of men who, judging from their success the first night are perfectly capable to keep the audience "going." Songs, comedy, repartee of the most lively character, all in an odd and original manner, constitute their melange which breaks out most humorously in unexpected places. One of the trio simulates a Hebrew, another a "simp," and another the typical rounder. The two Divanos, with special scenery and paraphernalia, are clever contortionists and equilibrist. Their act is both novel and entertaining. Miss Mae MacGowan, the soloist, possesses a fine voice that is well cultivated and she rendered most charmingly "Mine," "My Hero," and other popular selections of the day. "The Woe of Battle," was a motion picture drama that told the story of the horrors of war, and constituted a striking peace argument while "The Doctor's Love affair," was another drama with a more pleasing ending. Friday night in addition to the vaudeville, Pathe's Weekly is shown. For Monday the Palace has secured a big motion picture drama, "The Prisoner of Zenda," as portrayed by the celebrated actor, James Hackett and his company. This is a most dramatic masterpiece of romance and adventure in four parts, and as a play on the stage made a big sensation. In moving pictures it is amplified to a degree that the realism is perfect.

THE STAR-CHARLEROI.

Some exceedingly good pictures were shown at the Star Theatre this week, including the Mutual Weekly, which gave a most interesting panorama of world wide events. One of the great features of the week was "The Lure of the Violin," in three parts, a three-reel Broncho of stupendous dramatic sensations, in conjunction with "The Wizard of the Jungle." This latter picture was one of the greatest animal pictures ever shown, and was produced under the supervision of Capt. Jack Bonavia, the world's greatest lion tamer. There were other pleasing and interesting features throughout the week, the repertoire being strong in comedy. One of the entertaining films was "By Parcels Post." This was a comedy in which two dwarfs pose as man and wife. They get a letter that a friend is sending a baby, who was left an orphan, by parcel post. The "baby" arrives, and it is an overgrown creature in the dress of a two-year-old, rigged out like Eddie Foy. The diminutive couple have to climb on a step ladder to kiss the "baby," who gets in all kinds of trouble. Another pleasing drama was "A Ghost in Uniform" which had a spice of comedy as well as a touch of humanity in it. It was the story of two waifs, a newsboy and his crippled sister, who slept in an old wagon. While the boy is selling papers his sister is taken by the police, but the wife of the officer rescues her. The boy loses his sister, and sleeps in an old police station, which has been abandoned. He dons an old uniform and frightens some tramps, and later some officers. The Star as usual has good attractions for the week end.

THE ALVIN-PITTSBURG.

William Faversham..... Antony R. D. MacLean..... Brutus Edwin Arden ..... Cassius Fuller Mellich ..... Caesar Julie Opp ..... Portia This is the manner in which William Faversham assigned the principal roles in his spectacular production of "Julius Caesar" universally acknowledged to be the finest Shakespearean revival in half a century. In distributing the host of other parts in the Caesarian drama Mr. Faversham exercised equal pains and good judgment, and although the company numbers 200 persons, there is not a single weak spot in the entire performance even down to the persons who have only a single line to speak. Equally remarkable is the scenic equipment which comprises seven massive settings that were designed by the late Sir Alma Tadema the most authoritative painter of Roman subjects that the modern world has produced and executed in the London studio of Joseph Harker, who painted the splendid Oriental settings of "Kismet." An appropriate musical setting to accompany the action of the drama was composed by Christopher Wilson and Colridge-Taylor the gifted negro composer who recently died. The red-letter event of Pittsburgh Theatrical Season will be the presentation of Mr. Faversham of "Julius Caesar" at the Alvin Theatre next week.

THE GRAND-PITTSBURG.

For the week beginning Monday afternoon, April 21 Harry Davis offers in the Grand another of those high class vaudeville programs that is weekly making new records in attendance and artistry. He announces the engagement of the popular musical comedy star, Jack Norworth, the Honeymoon Four in an act of music, patter and Mr. Norworth's author of "Honey Boy," "Harvest Moon," "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," and an undated other successful songs is said to be happier in his new environment and more delightfully entertaining than at any time in his career.

Elizabeth Murray the accomplished character comedienne, whose performance in "Madame Sherry," revealed her to American critics as one of the ablest stars in her class, is coming with a group of funny songs. Miss Murray is an artiste from the floor to her crowning glory and she has selected a group of ditties best adapted to her personality and peculiar talents. Joy comes with James and Bonnie Thornton. Mr. Thornton has the quality of gentility and an original vein of humor. Bonnie Thornton, since her return to the stage after a long retirement has more than confirmed the good opinion playgoers had of her in the years gone by.

Laughter is sure to be unbridled all the time Willard Simms and company are playing "Flinder's Furnished Flat." Mr. Simms in Flinder's Furnished Flat does a job of paper hanging that would pull a graven image from its pedestal with mirth.

Hawthorne and Burt to give their new duologue "At Sea." It is a funny rapid fire patter act on board a battleship, exemplifying the awkward squad and satirizing new recruits.

Lietzel Sisters will do a dashing gymnastic act on flying Roman rings and trapeze. Mildred Grober with Dick Richards with acrobatic oddities and Mr. Edison's wonderful invention, the Kinetophone, or talking motion pictures will show a subject of paramount interest under the title of "Votes for Women." There are five speakers. Every word they utter is reproduced clearly and distinctly and for the first time Pittsburghers will be given opportunity to see and hear the ablest women orators in the cause of equal rights. The list included: Mary Ware Dennett, corresponding secretary National Woman's Suffrage Association; Mrs. James Lees Laidlay, Chairman Manhattan Bureau Woman's Suffrage Party; Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., Woman's Political Union; Miss Elizabeth Freeman, official speaker of the Washington Pilgrimage; Mrs. Raymond Brown, President Woman's Suffrage Study Club; Miss Harriet May Mills, President New York City Woman's Suffrage Association; Miss Eleanor Bryns, Pres. & Chairman National Woman's Suffrage Association; Mrs. John Winters Brannon, Woman's Political Union; Mrs. Cyrus W. Field, Woman's Political Union; Mrs. Anna Rose Weeks, Woman's Suffrage Party

PROF. FINEBERG TO GIVE LECTURE HERE

PROF. NATHAN FINEBERG.

The residents of the Monongahela valley are looking forward with more than ordinary interest to the greatest entertaining and educational event of the season, the visit of Prof. Nathan Fineberg, international orator, lecturer and professor of modern languages, which will take place Monday evening, May 19, at Turner Hall, McKean avenue at 8 o'clock.

The professor's visit to Charleroi will afford the last chance of hearing this distinguished orator, linguist and scholar's present series of travel lectures, as it will be followed by a lengthy trip to European countries. For the present tour, Prof. Fineberg has arranged a lecture and oratorical program, which will be sure to give every one something to discuss for some time to come. He will first give an introductory oration on universal peace, couched in the language of the immortal prophets, than which there can be nothing more beautiful: picturing the tranquility of a world under the banner of universal peace and harmony. This will be followed by a series of views taken in the holy land, which will be explained, and will be referred to by their native names. The professor will precede this by a declamation in the Holy language, in which language he will quote and translate the declamation literally into English.

For the second part, will be shown fifty wonders of the world, and as each prominent country is reached, the professor will first declaim in the language of that country, translating every word into English, showing the value of linguistic knowledge by the people in general, and the usefulness of modern languages in describing the beauties of nature, expressing poetic sentiments and their use in modern literature. For the last part, there will be an illustrated lecture on Paris, and a demonstration of the use of the French language. Every person is urged to lend their co-operation to make the professor's visit a success, by attending his illustrated travel lecture to all parts of the world, in order that they may derive therefrom a most interesting, entertaining, literary and educational value.

SHUTTING NOW BY DAY
SHUTTING NOW BY NIGHT

Only One Lock Will be in Operation at No. 4 From Now Until Completion

Mine owners of mines above the fourth pool anticipate the cutting down to some extent of their coal business during the spring and summer months by reason of the partial closing down of Lock No. 4, which is to be rebuilt.

The inner lock at Lock No. 4 was closed down some time ago and repairs are now being made there. This leaves just one lock in operation, the outer or smaller lock. When the inner lock is repaired it will be opened and the outer closed for good until it is reopened a new lock.

Nearly all the mines up the river are making large shipments by rail. Arnold No. 2 mine is sending nearly all its product out over the Western Maryland, while the mines along the river front are using the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie to quite an extent.

No curtailment in the working force of the different mines is anticipated at the present time.

COUNTERFEIT DIES ARE CONFISCATED

Implements for Manufacture of $10 and $20

Gold Pieces Secured and Monessen Man is Placed Under Arrest

For having in his possession two dies for the manufacture of counterfeit $10 and $20 gold pieces, Ellsworth Glover, a well known Monessen State Trooper, was notified by the State Trooper and taken to Pittsburg to be lodged in jail by a United States Secret Service officer. Later evidence of the manufacture of counterfeit coins was discovered. One of the dies showed the effects of heating but it might easily have been from testing. The dies are declared to be works of art, so perfectly are they. They were hand cut.

Mr. Glover is employed at the plant of the Carnegie Hoop mill. When he came to work Friday he gave the watchman a shoe box, asking him to keep it for him, and explaining it was a pair of shoes. Made suspicious by the weight of the box the watchman took the liberty of removing the lid. Inside were the two steel dies, one enclosed in a wooden mould. The other was made similar to a seal. State Trooper Perkins was notified and placed Glover under arrest. A statement made by the police station he claimed they were not his property and that he was taking them to a man at Amford. Later Friday night it is stated after a Pittsburg details were revealed, Glover is said to have confessed he owned the dies.

Mr. Glover has been resident of the Monessen vicinity for the last 14 years. He is 45 years of age, and has a wife and nine children, being just recently moved to Monessen from North Charleroi. When his shoe was searched three pounds of powder, used in the manufacture of counterfeit coins were found. The $10 dies dated 1910 and the $20 die, 1889.

THREE PLAYERS SIGN CONTRACTS

First Baseman Swartling and Pitchers Beebe and Taylor Meet Phillips

On Monday morning the first players will report for the training season of the Indianapolis club of the Federal league. Manager Bill Phillips secured the contracts of Swartling, first baseman; Beebe, pitcher, and Taylor pitcher, and announced them as signed today.

Manager Phillips is the busiest man in town. With taking care of ball players of the younger generation who desire tryouts—and generally speaking they will get what they want—and with the signing of old timers and preparing for active work next week he has his hands full.

Swartling the first baseman whom he has signed came here from Pittsburg to see Manager Phillips. Swartling is one of the fastest first basemen that has ever donned a suit in minor league circles. He formerly played with Zanesville, and had he cared could have been in the big league by this time and not half tried. Instead he worked in Pittsburg last year.

Beebe made a wonderful record in Michigan last year where he pitched for Marquette. He won 18 games and lost three. He is a right hander.

Taylor is a crack. He was secured by Cincinnati last year and then loaned to Indianapolis in the American Association, where he finished.

Married at Washington.

Miss Mabel Rush, of Laboratory, and George E. Elliott of Washington were married a week ago at Washington, but have gone to housekeeping at Laboratory. The bride is well known in Charleroi, this being her former home. For a time she was employed as a compositor in the Mail office. Mr. Elliott has charge of the job press room of the Washington Record.

SMALL INDUSTRIES

While it seems to be the ambition of most towns that have a board of trade or business men's association to talk glibly about the desirability of small industries, it is very seldom that any concerted movement is ever made in this direction. With most people the idea of a small industry is a little factory that makes something for which a market is already created somewhere out of town, and all the management has to do is to manufacture his product, fill and ship orders, pay his employees who immediately rush with their pay envelopes to the local business places to spend their money. That is the ideal picture of small industries.

As a matter of fact small industries will appear in any town that will give them support. These are simply concerns that undertake to supply local needs, and if the local people will buy and consume their product, the small industry will thrive. It is simply a matter of volition on the part of each and every community. If every Charleroi smoker smoked Charleroi made cigars there would be one or two cigar factories running all the time here. The attempt has been made but failed for lack of patronage. If local people would patronize a laundry one would be established here giving employment to a large number of girls and women. An overall factory could be established here if the local consumers and dealers would handle its product, instead of buying sweatshop articles, because they are cheaper. If even the business people here advertised as they used to the Mail could sustain three or four more families here. It used to do it when the paper was not anything near the advertising medium it is today.

The small industry is small because it hasn't the capital to be large, and it invariably has to depend upon local trade and local encouragement to get a start and branch out. Where this is not forthcoming there are no small industries, and there never will be any. Any community can have them if it chooses, but they must be supported at home.

WHAT IT WILL DO.

Those who voted the Democratic ticket last fall in the hopes that the reduction in tariff to which the party is pledged would effect a reduction in prices in the necessities of life and thereby reduce the cost of living, will be disappointed. The tariff reduction will not do this.

vision downward is effected, it is extremely doubtful if any perceptible difference in prices will be noticed. A few articles in drygoods and wearing apparel may be cheapened, and it is possible that women may be able to get a better pair of hose for a quarter than they do now, but aside from a few similar instances it is extremely doubtful if prices in general will be effected.

What is likely to be affected, and what will be of inestimable benefit to the public in time if the proposed changes go into effect, is that a reduction of tariff will take away from certain interests the special privileges that a high protective tariff gives them. At the present time there is no need of such protection, and the business advantage that enables a manufacturer to charge a high price, based on the cost of production, and then add to the selling price the tariff duty, enables special interests to accumulate swollen fortunes, on which watered stock is issued to absorb the abnormal earnings.

The evil of the high protective tariff has been that labor has not profited by the big profits which have gone to pay dividends on watered stock. A reduction now cannot reduce prices appreciably, as the mischief has been done in the issue of $70,000,000 of watered stock on which labor must forever pay dividends, but it will have the effect of preventing a continuation of the process of industrial inflation which is now so burdensome to the public.

PICKED UP IN PASING

The following has been added in with request that it be plished in the "Picked Up in Passing" column: "Votes for Women." We see this slogan every day in the papers. It certainly must mean something. Well, what does it mean? Does it really mean that the women of the great commonwealth of Pennsylvania want to vote, and share every burden equally with the men? Or is it a catch vote cry of a few women, with masculine minds, and inclinations, who to a certain extent are unsexed?

Do the women of Pennsylvania want the franchise? If the majority of the women real and truly want it, why let them have it. I, for one, doubt it. There have been many tests taken among women's clubs, and as far as the have been civilized, a large majority do not want the franchise. Before forcing the privilege on the women, I, for one, am in favor of taking a census of the women of Pennsylvania and thus find out whether they really do want it. But for us to be dominated by a few masterly women, who would compel action by unfair means is wrong, and therefore let the women settle the matter among themselves, and the poor masculines will do as they say as we always do anyway. Remember ladies, if you get the vote you will have to shoulder the accompanying responsibilities.

I could certainly like to be the late's Women's Guard, and then collect in command of a regiment of I could like to give the following command, when it came to a gutter: "Attention, Ladies, Dress up in front, and get up in the rear."

Queer Bits From India
In "Queens and Super-Queens of Southern India" Edgar Thurston, the author, says:

"On one occasion, when I was in camp at Coimbatore, the odds in my favor, being afraid of my evil eye, refused to fire a new kind of bricks for the new club chambers until I had taken my departure. On another occasion I caught hold of a ladie to show my friend Dr. Rivers what were the fragrant contents of a pot in which an odde woman was cooking the evening meal. On returning from a walk we heard a great noise proceeding from the odde men, who had meanwhile returned from work, and found the woman seated apart on a rock and sobbing. She had been excommunicated for having touched the pot."

Pepys and His Spectacles.
Pepys in his famous diary tells of those devices which he used when his eyes began to fail him. Aug. 31, 1668: "The month ends mighty sadly with me, my eyes being now past all use almost, and I am mighty let upon trying the late printed experiment of paper tubes." A few days later he is "mightily pleased with a trial I have made of the use of a tube-spectacle of paper, tried with my right eye." And so it goes on, the tube being used first for one eye, then for the other, and finally he has a vizard, into which a tube for both eyes with glass in it is fastened. It was of no use, and the diary had to be discontinued. But Pepys lived and saw and prospered for many years after he had given up tubes and glasses.

Tiger and Lion.
"One time, in order to test the courage of a Bengal tiger and a lion," said a well known showman, "we placed Chinese crackers in the respective cages and fired the fuses. As soon as the fuses began to burn they attracted the attention of both animals, but in a widely different manner. The lion drew into a corner and watched the proceedings with a distrustful and an easy eye. The tiger, on the contrary, advanced to the burning fuse with a firm step and undimmed gaze. On reaching the cracker he began to roll it over the floor with his paw and when it exploded beneath his nose he did not flinch but continued his examination until perfectly satisfied. Then he retired gracefully when he heard the report of the explosion, and for quite a time he seemed to be musing over the matter."

The Fiddle Drill.
The "fiddle drill" is one of the oldest stonecutting tools in existence. It is said to antedate Greek sculpture and is in use today in about the same form as it was 2,000 years ago. As its name implies, its action resembles a fiddle. The drill is of two pieces. In one hand a carrier holds the drill stock, which is like a carpenter's brace except that it is straight instead of having a crank. In the other hand he holds the "bow," which is strung with a brass wire and which is given a turn around the drill stock. To use the drill the carrier places the drill stock against his breast, holding it with his left hand, and with his right he draws the bow back and forth, fiddle fashion. This imparts a rotary motion to the drill stock, and the drill is ground to cut in either way it turns. The fiddle drill is used in the finest work, in places where the sculptor could not reach with his chisel.

THE COYLE-CHARLEROI.

With magnificent settings and superb details, the great Eclair feature motion picture drama, "The Superior Law," was the leading attraction in the most excellent of repertoire of the Coyle Theatre this week. The picture was in three parts and was another powerful story of the great Northwest series of the Eclair feature films. It pictured a famous lawyer acquitting a man he really knew to be guilty, but lack of direct evidence won him the case. The lawyer, who is addicted to drink, neglects his charming wife, who is followed by the attentions of a captain in the army. After the lawyer becomes attracted by the daughter of the proprietor of a road house he is supposed to be killed and thrown in the river in a drunken brawl, and the wife marries the captain. The lawyer is rescued by the woodman he acquitted, who takes him to his cabin, and gets a specialist to perform an operation which restores the lawyer to reason. There he learns of his wife's marriage and decides to remain in the woods. He finally marries the daughter of the saloon keeper but later tells of his deceit. An accident causes the death of his real wife and then he is free to marry the girl. In addition to this film was a feature two reel drama, showing the career of Loretta Borgia, the woman who figured in history as one of the noted poisoners of the age. Manager Coyle is making preparations for some extraordinary educational features next week, which will be announced in due season. A good bill is on for Saturday.

THE PALACE-CHARLEROI.

Another good vaudeville bill opened at the Palace Theatre Thursday night for the balance of the week, with a matinee Saturday. Heading the bill is the Manhattan Trio, a clever bunch of men who, judging from their success the first night are perfectly capable to keep the audience "going." Songs, comedy, repartee of the most lively character, all in an odd and original manner, constitute their melange which breaks out most humorously in unexpected places. One of the trio simulates a Hebrew, another a "simp," and another the typical rounder. The two Divanos, with special scenery and paraphernalia, are clever contortionists and equilibrists. Their act is both novel and entertaining. Miss Mae MacGowan, the soloist, possesses a fine voice that is well cultivated and she rendered most charmingly "Mine," "My Hero," and other popular selections of the day. "The Woe of Battle," was a motion picture drama that told the story of the horrors of war, and constituted a striking peace argument while "The Doctor's Love Affair," was another drama with a more pleasing ending. Friday night in addition to the vaudeville, Pathe's Weekly is shown. For Monday the Palace has secured a big motion picture drama, "The Prisoner of Zenda," as portrayed by the celebrated actor, James Hackett and his company. This is a most dramatic masterpiece of romance and adventure in four parts, and as a play on the stage made a big sensation. In moving pictures it is amplified to a degree that the realism is perfect.

THE STAR-CHARLEROI.

Some exceedingly good pictures were shown at the Star Theatre this week, including the Mutual Weekly, which gave a most interesting panorama of world wide events. One of the great features of the week was "The Lure of the Violin," in three parts, a three-reel Broncho of stupendous dramatic sensations, in conjunction with "The Wizard of the Jungle." This latter picture was one of the greatest animal pictures ever shown, and was produced under the supervision of Capt. Jack Bonavita, the world's greatest lion tamer. There were other pleasing and interesting features throughout the week. The repertoire being strong in comedy. One of the entertaining films was "By Parcells Post." This was a comedy in which two dwarfs pose as man and wife. They get a letter that a friend is sending a baby, who was left an orphan, by parcel post. The "baby" arrives, and it is an overgrown creature in the dress of a two-year-old, rigged out like Eddie Foy. The diminutive couple have to climb on a step ladder to kiss the "baby," who gets in all kinds of trouble. Another pleasing drama was "A Ghost in Uniform" which had a spice of comedy as well as a touch of humanity in it. It was the story of two waifs, a newsboy and his crippled sister, who slept in an old wagon. While the boy is selling papers his sister is taken by the police, but the wife of the officer rescues her. The boy loses his sister, and sleeps in an old police station, which has been abandoned. He dons an old uniform and frightens some tramps, and later some officers. The Star as usual has good attractions for the week end.

THE ALVIN-PITTSBURG.

William Faversham..... Antony R. D. MacLean..... Brutus Edwin Arden..... Cassius Fuller Mellish..... Caesar Julie Opp..... Portia This is the manner in which William Faversham assigned the principal roles in his spectacular production of "Julius Caesar" universally acknowledged to be the finest Shakespearean revival in half a century. In distributing the host of other parts in the Caesarian drama Mr. Faversham exercised equal pains and good judgment, and although the company numbers 200 persons, there is not a single weak part in the performance even down to the persons who have only a single line to speak. Equally remarkable is the scenic equipment which comprises seven massive settings that were designed by the late Sir Alma Tadema the most authoritative painter of Roman subjects that the modern world has produced and executed in the London studio of Joseph Marker, who painted the splendid Oriental settings of "Kismet." An appropriate musical setting to accompany the action of the drama was composed by Christopher Wilson and Colridge-Taylor the gifted negro composer who recently died. The red-letter event of Pittsburgh Theatrical Season will be the presentation of Mr. Faversham of "Julius Caesar" at the Alvin Theatre next week.

THE GRAND-PITTSBURG.

For the week beginning Monday afternoon, April 21 Harry Davis offers in the Grand another of those high class vaudeville programs that is weekly making new records in attendance and artistry. He announces the engagement of the popular musical comedy star, Jack Norworth, the Honey-moon Four in an act comedy, patter and Mr. Norworth's author of "Honey Boy," "Harvest Moon," "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," and an undied other successful songs is said to be happier in his new environment and more delightfully entertaining than at any time in his career.

Elizabeth Murray the accomplished character comedienne, whose performance in "Madame Sherry," revealed her to American critics as one of the ablest stars in her class, is coming with a group of funny songs. Miss Murray is an artist from the floor to her crowning glory and she has selected a group of ditties best adapted to her personality and peculiar talents. Joy comes with James and Bonnie Thornton. Mr. Thornton has the quality of gentility and an original vein of humor. Bonnie Thornton, since her return to the stage after a long retirement has more than confirmed the good opinion playgoers had of her in the years gone by.

Laughter is sure to be unbridled all the time Willard Simms and company are playing "Flinder's Furnished Flat." Mr. Simms in Flinder's Furnished Flat does a job of paper hanging that would pull a graven image from its pedestal with might.

Hawthorne and Bart to give their new duologue "At Sea." It is a funny rapid fire patter act on board a battleship, exemplifying the awkward squad and satirizing new recruits. Lietzel Sisters will do a dashing gymnastic act on flying Roman rings and trapeze. Mildred Grober with Dick Richards with acrobatic oddities and Mr. Edison's wonderful invention, the Kinetophone, or talking motion pictures will show a subject of paramount interest under the title of "Votes for Women." There are five speakers. Every word they utter is reproduced clearly and distinctly and for the first time Pittsburghers will be given opportunity to see and hear the ablest women orators in the cause of equal rights. The list included: Mary Ware Dennett, corresponding secretary National Woman's Suffrage Association; Mrs. James Lees Laidlay, Chairman Manhattan Bureau Woman's Suffrage Party; Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., Woman's Political Union; Miss Elizabeth Freeman, official speaker of the Washington pilgrimage; Mrs. Ray-

Suffrage Study Club; Miss Harriet May Mills, President New York City Woman's Suffrage Association; Miss Eleanor Bryns, Pres. & Chairman National Woman's Suffrage Association; Mrs. Frances Maule Brodman, Secretary Literary Committee, National Woman's Suffrage Association; Mrs. John Winters, Brannon, Woman's Political Union; Mrs. Cyrus W. Field, Woman's Political Union; Mrs. Anna Rose-Weeks, Woman's Suffrage Party.

PROF. FINEBERG TO GIVE LECTURE HERE

PROF. NATHAN FINEBERG.

The residents of the Monongahela valley are looking forward with more than ordinary interest to the greatest entertaining and educational event of the season, the visit of Prof. Nathan Fineberg, international orator, lecturer and professor of modern languages, which will take place Monday evening, May 19, at Turner Hall, McKean avenue at 8 o'clock. The professor's visit to Charleroi will afford the last chance of hearing this distinguished orator, linguist and scholar's present series of travel lectures, as it will be followed by a lengthy trip to European countries. For the present tour, Prof. Fineberg has arranged a lecture and oratorical program, which will be sure to give every one something to discuss for some time to come. He will first give an introductory oration on universal peace, couched in the language of the immortal prophets, than which there can be nothing more beautiful: picturing the tranquility of a world under the banner of universal peace and harmony. This will be followed by a series of views taken in the holy land, which will be explained, and will be referred to by their native names. The professor will precede this by a declamation in the Holy language, in which language he will quote and translate the declamation literally into English. For the second part, will be shown fifty wonders of the world, and as each prominent country is reached, the professor will first declaim in the language of that country, translating every word into English, showing the value of linguistic knowledge by the people in general, and the usefulness of modern languages in describing the beauties of nature, expressing poetic sentiments and their use in modern literature. For the last part, there will be an illustrated lecture on Paris, and a demonstration of the use of the French language. Every person is urged to lend their co-operation to make the professor's visit a success, by attending his illustrated travel lecture to all parts of the world, in order that they may derive therefrom a most interesting, entertaining, literary and educational value.
